About

The Franklin Lakes Community Garden opened in 2017 and hundreds of pounds of fresh organic vegetables have been harvested through the years. Local student, Nick Aslanian, designed the garden for his Eagle Scout project and Boy Scouts helped build it. The Franklin Lakes Environmental Commission, the Franklin Lakes United Methodist Church and volunteers of all ages have planted, maintained and harvested the vegetables over the years.

DONATIONS

The vegetables grown in the garden are donated to those in need through CUMAC in Paterson, NJ and Center for Food Action in Mahwah, NJ.

Sustainability

- Organic gardening
- No chemicals, fertilizers, or pesticides used
- Composter on site
- Volunteer work force
- Donations from local businesses
